

- Your changes must be ready to migrate to bullseye at that time
- Upload several days before the deadline
- * If a change is late, it may still be applicable for an update via a point release after bullseye has been released.
- * Please note that the automatic removals are still in effect and may still remove packages up to that date. Also, some packages will be removed manually before the auto-removal deadline.

Please fix bugs today rather than shortly before the deadline. Simple mistakes (no manner how trivial) or busy build queue can end up causing your upload to miss the bullseye release.

Future updates to bullseye up to the freeze

=====

As we are entering the final part of the freeze, please keep future changes and unblock requests limited to:

- * targeted fixes for release critical bugs (i.e., bugs of severity critical, grave, and serious);
- * fixes for severity: important bugs, only when this can be done via unstable;
- * translation updates and documentation fixes, only when this can be done via unstable (preferably bundled with a fix for at least one of the problems listed above and nothing else)
- * updates to packages directly related to the release process (i.e. with references to the current layout of the archive), only when this can be done via unstable;

We will only accept targeted fixes. Requests including other changes will not be accepted. Please do not upload new upstream versions to unstable.

For the release team,
Paul

● Debian 11.0 "Bullseye" Gets An August Release Date - Phoronix [3]

The Debian release team has just announced their planned release date for Debian 11.

Debian developers are aiming to release Debian 11.0 "Bullseye" on Saturday, 14 August.

● Viper Browser [4]

There is a new application available for Sparkers: Viper Browser

Debian

Source URL: <http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/153736>

Links:

[1] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/141>

[2] <https://lists.debian.org/debian-devel-announce/2021/07/msg00003.html>

[3] https://www.phoronix.com/scan.php?page=news_item&px=Debian-11-Release-Date

[4] <https://sparkylinux.org/viper-browser/>